Third Year Research Paper - Supervisory Agreement

The Third Year Research Paper Requirement requires that by the end of their third year in residence (i.e., end of May), students complete a research paper. This paper must be approved by two faculty members, at least one of whom is a member of the Graduate Group (this is of particular importance for those writing a paper in finance). This paper need not be (and often is not) a polished piece of research. It should, however, have the clear potential to become one.

Faculty are not expected to read or approve a research paper of a student who has not discussed it with them by the beginning of the spring semester.

STUDENT

has asked me to be one of the faculty who will read (and if it is acceptable, approve) the third year paper.
