

Local Information

The Colloquium will take place in the center of Penn's campus (Steinberg Hall / Dietrich Hall, 3620 Locust Walk, room 350). See map. Because the Colloquium is on a Saturday, access to the building may be restricted; you should use the entrance on Locust Walk between 36th and 37th Streets and tell the guard that you are attending the Lawrence R. Klein Colloquium.

Wireless internet will be available.

Molin Zhong, a Penn Ph.D. student working in the area of empirical macroeconomics, will be on duty for the entire Colloquium. He will be at a table outside the Colloquium room to help in all ways possible. He can assist you with wireless access, booking taxis, directions, etc. If you need his assistance on the day of the event but can't speak to him directly (e.g., if you're locked out of the building), you may call him at (515) 333-1984 (cell).

If you have any questions in advance of the event, please email Kristin Nestor at kleinlegacy@econ.upenn.edu.

PLEASE NOTE: This information is subject to revision, so please check back periodically.